Supporting Feingold's Call For Accountability: Where Have All the Democrats Gone?

How many ways do the people of this country have to ask the Democratic Party to show us that they have a unified plan to accomplish something – anything at all? We're out here floundering like fish out of the water gasping for air. We are sick to death of contributing money, writing to senators, congressmen and newspaper editors, pleading for one thing or another, only to find that there is no unity within this party. The Republicans repeatedly make the claim that the Democrats are "playing politics." Isn't conducting the business of politics what they are paid to do? Perhaps it's the very word "playing" since they don't appear to take their responsibilities serious when delivering their yay's and nays.

Today I make the plea that all Senators who are American support Senator Feingold's motion to censure President Bush. He (Bush) is what I consider to be the most eminent threat facing this country. It is extraordinarily frightening to me that this White House is devoid of conscience and shame. Mr. Bush and his administration continually abuse the power of the office with reckless and arrogant abandon.

Democrats (and secretly many Republicans) are screaming out for their elected officials who hold our future in the palm of their hands to stand up and speak up. We are tired of the grandstanding on both sides of the aisle. The crime being committed here when I check to see how the actual voting comes down on the various issues. I felt abandoned when the Democratic Party failed to support Kerry in his push to filibuster Alito regardless of whether it was feasibly possible or not. I felt grief when the Democrats in Congress snuck out of the room on John Murtha leaving him holding the proverbial bag. I felt hopelessness when Democrats failed to unite with Senator Feingold in opposing the re-authorization of the PATRIOT Act caving in to token amendments. I feel that not only do we no longer have a voice - we don't even have a party! This entire government has become

At the end of the game, win or lose, each of you remains a charter member of that elite 2% club, so the stakes really don't matter. You are either forgetting that there's real people on the other side of your votes, or you literally couldn't care less. I fear it's the latter. I applaud Senator Feingold for the courage to boldly stand up for the people he serves. I honor him for boldly wearing his heart on his sleeve for all to see his love for country. I admire him for not selling out when the demon lobbyists come beckoning for his votes. I respect him for being a noble man amongst thieves who steal from the poor to feed the rich and there is still flicker of light at the end of this very long and dark tunnel.

I am pleading with you to seize this opportunity to show the American people and the world, that our government demands the return of our integrity and dignity. How can we possibly claim that we bring democracy to any other country when we have clearly succumbed to a Dictatorship?

Trust me when I tell you that at least 65% of my fellow Americans share in my frustration. Cast your vote accordingly.
